Business Process Security Consulting

Evolve your security posture from good to great

You've got all the basic security practices in motion. You have a security plan and a policy in place and you are proactively monitoring all the major arteries that run in and out of your business. But there is much more you can be doing to streamline business operations and ensure ongoing business resiliency and compliance in the evolving threat landscape. This is where CenturyLink® Business Process Security Consulting can help. We work with your team to take your security posture to the next level to boost business outcomes and help prevent security events from harming not only the business, but its partners, investors and customers.

Business Process Security focuses on the human factor – whether its employee training, phishing assessment services or security control evaluations to ensure individual behavior is in alignment with existing security policies.

Use Business Process Security Consulting to:

- Reduce risk from highly advanced threats.
- Improve organization-wide understanding and buy-in for security initiatives.
- Uncover overlooked danger points from partners and vendors
- Discover program improvement opportunities

Partner Supplier Assessment

Evaluate the interconnection of people, process, and technologies between your organization and partner organizations to help ensure stronger security outcomes for all.

Security Architecture Assessment & Design Services

Evaluate existing architecture for change, prioritize assets, align controls with business values, or build a new framework for device management and monitoring.

Cybersecurity Staffing

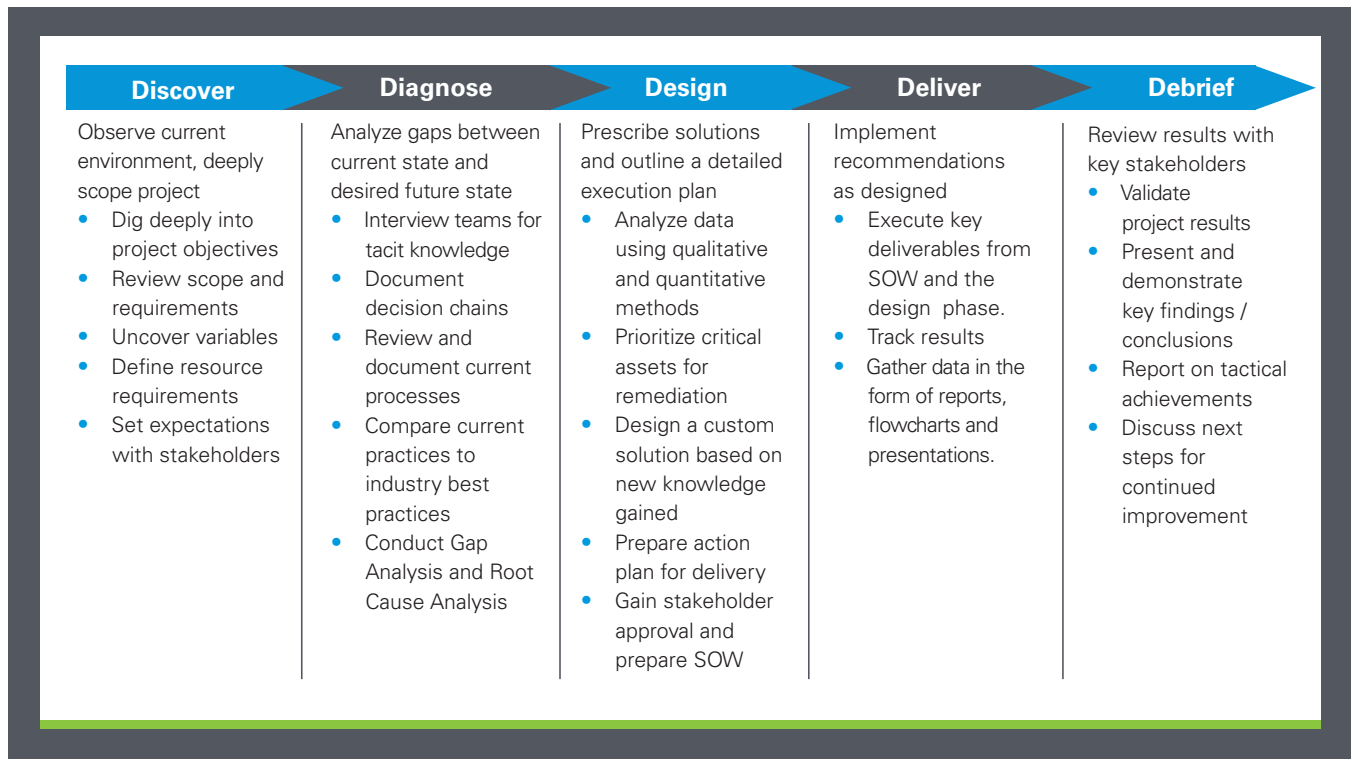

Fill long or short-term gaps in security expertise with specialists in large-scale integrations, systems architecture or planning, interim CISO/CSO or privacy officers.

Security Control Evaluations

Evaluate existing security controls against employee behavior to see how well they are keeping up with business objectives and compliance needs.

Methodology

The CenturyLink Security consulting practice follows a proven methodology for assessing risks to your business to help you ensure you are meeting Governance, Risk and Compliance (GRC) needs. All of our programs follow our standard five-step methodology that includes scoping the project and diagnosing the gaps, designing a custom solution and execution plan, then implementing the recommendations and debriefing the solution with key stakeholders.
